FOREIGNERS GATHER IN SHAMEEN TODAY FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

Land Now In State of Siege As Gunboats Guard Creek

ALL APPROACHES ARE FORTIFIED

Europeans Warned Not To Enter City of Canton Today

(Associated Press)

CANTON, June 22.—Shameen, the official island, which is the Canton foreign settlement, today was in a state of siege. Two gunboats one British and one French, held commanding positions in the creek separating Shameen from the city.

All approaches to the island were fortified with piled up sandbags and machine firing guns, testifying to the preparedness of the foreign forces.

All Europeans have been warned not to enter Canton itself. It is believed they will be safe on the island. The placing of the two gunboats is supposed to have made impossible any landing of Chinese on the island.

A detachment of French arrived this morning and took up quarters in Shameen. Foreign residents in the Y. M. C. A. and Canton itself have been urged to leave for some other lodging.

The general strike is continuing under pressure brought to bear by the Y. M. C. A. and the present ruling faction in Canton. Some Chinese say that much of the anti-foreign feeling being preached is a result of the pro-Chinese Party's coercion.

Anti-foreign feeling is especially strong against Japanese and British nationals and their interests. The Americans are expected to be receiving better treatment.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS SERMONS

Christian Campaign Is Well Attended At Tent on Sunday

Large audiences heard Rev. Noble Edwards, pastor of the First Christian church, open the two-week evangelistic campaign at the tent on the corner of Fourth avenue and Gordon Drive. The Y. M. C. A. quartet gave an added feature to the musical program at the evening service.

Rev. Edwards' morning subject, "An Uplifted Christ," was well received by an overflow attendance, while his evening subject, "The Outstanding Promises of God," was equally as forceful and interesting.

Charles H. Johnson conducted the organ service at the morning service, while G. E. McCullough, regular leader, led the singers at the evening gathering.

The Y. M. C. A. Quartet, returning from a short trip to Tennessee where they were enjoyed at Pulaski and Mount Moriah, rendered several well selected numbers at the evening meeting.

Rev. Edwards extended an invitation today to people of all denominations to attend the services which will be held in the evenings at 7:45 o'clock with the exception of Sunday when regular sabbath hours will be observed.

MITCHELL ARRESTS FOUR

Traffic officer M. J. Mitchell arrested three alleged speeders Sunday and charged with having prohibited liquors in his possession. The former cases were fined $26.60 while the latter case was fined $0 and given 30 days on the street.

FEARFUL OF HANGMAN'S NOOSE, GRANT BIDS DEATH WELCOME

Condemned Youth Declines To Permit Doctor To Perform Operation Which Would Have Saved His Life.

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 22.—Bernard Grant, fearful of the hangman's noose, refused today to permit physicians to perform an operation in the hope of saving his life, and died thirty minutes later.

He was stabbed five times Saturday by Walter Krauser, once sentenced with Grant to hang, but later granted a new trial. Physicians at the House of Correction hospital insisted on a blood transfusion.

"I'll be dead in a little while if you'll let me alone," said the wounded prisoner, "so why prolong my life when it is going to be taken anyway?"

Dr. Frank Jirka pleaded, but Grant's resistance did not weaken and half an hour later he died.

Grant insisted that he was innocent and that Krauser, alone, was guilty of the killing of Policeman Ralph Souders in a hold-up in 1922.

MAN HUNTERS CLOSE IN ON DESPERADO

Swamp Expected Give Up Negro to Posse During the Day

(Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 22.—Sure of their man after eleven days and nights of close pursuit, sheriff's possses and volunteer citizens aides were closing in Monday on the swampy retreat of Rufus Hicks, negro convict and axe slayer, who, heavily armed hunters have tracked through four counties.

Hicks, with an axe, killed H. J. Walker, Muskegee county convict guard June 10 and escaped with four other negro prisoners. One of the four men has been killed and three recaptured by officers.

Shot at scores of times when sighted by the man hunters and believed to be wounded, the desperado was believed to be at bay in the bottom lands in Merriwether county.

A rifle bullet slapped off the fugitives hat Sunday night, according to a message received here Monday. The negro has killed several dogs which officers had set on his trail.

Over 1,000 persons have participated in an all-day hunt Sunday for the fugitive.

TWO ARE INJURED IN SUNDAY CRASH

Both Cars Overturned As Attempt Is Made To Pass Front Car

Mrs. Harvey Fleming may be injured seriously and Miss Mary Hand is painfully thought not seriously hurt according to information given to The Daily today, following an automobile crash on the Decatur-Courtland highway near Wheeler station about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Physicians reports today were to the effect that the extent of Mrs. Fleming's injury was not yet determined, but that Miss Hand was thought to be recovering nicely.

According to details of the crash given by W. W. Dunn, who aided in righting the cars following the wreck, a Ford Touring car driven by B. B. Fleming was proceeding toward Trinity when a Ford coupe owned by J. M. Massey of Vina, Ala., and driven by a lady occupant of a car whose name was not learned, in attempting to pass the touring car struck the side of the car. Both cars were overturned on opposite sides of the roadway. It was not thought that any of the three occupants of the coupe were injured. The five occupants of the touring car were scratched, bruised and otherwise shaken, it is said.

Mrs. Fleming and Miss Hand were taken to their homes near Trinity and given medical attention by Drs. W. A. and Frank Emens.

MOULTON SQUARE IS TO BE PAVED

Council Will Take The Necessary Action at Tonight's Meet

Four city blocks surrounding the Lawrence county courthouse in the city of Moulton will be paved at a cost of approximately $13,000, according to an announcement given out today by W. R. Harris, mayor of Moulton, who was in the cities preparing the ordinances for the necessary publication for bids on the work. Construction is to be started just as soon as the authorities can arrange. The paving is to be of the best grade road material and fifty feet wide.

Mr. Harris stated today that the council of Moulton would meet tonight to pass the street paving ordinance. He said that the taxpayers of the city would bear a part of the expense, the county a part and the city a portion. He added that he thought the additional paving would do a great deal toward making the city more attractive.

Blair Returns To Work on Age-Herald

J. E. Blair returned to Birmingham Sunday evening to resume his duties on the staff of the Birmingham Age-Herald after several weeks illness when he was confined at his home, 17 Seventh avenue West.

Mr. Blair was advised by physicians several weeks ago to come to his home and rest after having been through a severe influenza.

The many friends of the former Daily writer will be pleased to hear of Mr. Blair's recovery.

Hollywood Bus Leaves Tuesday

The first of the series of Hollywood bus trips from here to the Florida community, planned for this summer, will leave Tuesday, according to announcement of Hall and Moore, local representatives.

The agents announced that they planned to operate the trips to Hollywood throughout the summer, provided the people of this section desire them. It is the plan, at present, to have one bus leave here every week.

One Killed, Two Jailed for 15 Cents

(Associated Press)

ROGERS, Ark., June 22.—Friday night three youths, Fred Cook, Neil Bullock and Brock Goodpasture started out to have a good time. Today, Cook is dead and Bullock and Goodpasture are in jail after an attempt to rob a drug store that netted them fifteen cents, the sum that they had paid a few minutes before for drinks. The robbery took place last night just across the Missouri state line. The youths escaped after the attempted robbery and in a gun battle with E. P. McAllister, deputy sheriff, Cook was killed. The other two surrendered.

BETTER SANITARY PRACTICE IN MEAT INDUSTRY SOUGHT

Elimination Misleading Advertisement Also Asked In Report

INVESTIGATORS FINISH PROBE

Foreign Dealers Given Blame For Most of Trouble

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The need of better sanitary practices in the meat industry and the elimination of misleading advertising were urged by the department of agriculture today in a report covering the study of conditions in a score of cities.

A greater knowledge of fundamental business principles is needed, the report said, elimination of unwarranted competition was recommended.

While the investigators found most cities had adequate sanitary regulations for retail food distribution, they said few had effective enforcement. Cities named as examples "where sanitary methods were lacking" included New Orleans and Birmingham.

"While efficient, practical and progressive dealers have taken pride in following sanitary practices," the report said, "there are many in the industry who have little or no regard for sanitation."

"The greatest offenders are foreigners or those of recent foreign descent. They have no conception of the value of strict sanitation."

"In every large city a percentage of retail meat dealers take advantage of customers' lack of knowledge of quality in meats to practice every conceivable means of deceiving the public. Such dealers are known as clean up men."

"Short weighing and overcharging also are common practices with unscrupulous dealers."

The department recommended comparison of business practices and exchange of information in the trade.

All Kiwanis Night To Be Observed

Morgan Kiwanis club will observe "All Kiwanis Night" this evening at 7:40 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. in a short twenty minute meet. The occasion is known as "Zero Hour," when all the Kiwanis clubs in the nation will gather at the same time. Kiwanis International is meeting in St. Paul.

M. R. Rankin, secretary of the club and C. W. Matthews, president, are representing the Albany-Decatur organization at the international sessions.

Invention Local Man Interesting

William Orr, well known local resident, has received an invitation from the National Court Reporters convention, in Omaha, to appear before the convention and demonstrate an invention, recently perfected by Mr. Orr.

By means of the device patented by Mr. Orr, reporters are able to use the dictaphone in taking down speeches, charges to juries and other oral statements verbatim.

STEAMER BURNS

HAFVE, France, June 22.—Fire today aboard the British steamer Lowther Castle, anchored here, destroyed almost 2,000 tons of cotton, lumber and grain and damaged the vessel.

MAN IS MURDERED

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., June 22.—F. C. Lewis prominent merchant and farmer of Epps, Ala., was murdered in his store Saturday night. Robbery was the motive. He was a bachelor and lived alone in an apartment adjoining the store. He was reported to have had considerable money in the safe which was blown open.

UNCLE SAM 'NABS' ALLEGED LOOTER AFTER LONG HUNT

John Wesley DeKay Is Back In America to Face Trial

WORLD CAREER VERY CHECKERED

United States Failed In Extradition Effort In Switzerland

(Associated Press)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 22.—John Wesley DeKay, financier, gun runner and playwright, was back here today to answer a federal indictment for bank looting, after eluding justice for 12 years.

He was brought from London yesterday by a department of justice agent. In 1913 indictments were returned against him and four others for misapplying $200,000 of the defunct Atlantic National bank here.

Two of the four have since served penitentiary sentences.

After fleeing, DeKay was heard from as a defendant in a suit in London in 1914, through which a firm of jewelers tried to recover $15,000 for gems bought on credit. His secretary, a Miss Elliott, testified that most of his money had been spent entertaining Mlle. Bernhardt, who then was playing in DeKay's "Judas."

In the same year the French government unsuccessfully sought his extradition on a charge of the Belgium government that he had obtained 315,000 francs under false pretenses, when he sold two Belgium rifles bought in Spain and paid for by Mexico.

After he took refuge in Switzerland, the United States failed in 1922 to extradite him on the bank failure charges.

Jury Venire To Be Called This Week

Circuit Clerk J. L. Draper declared today that the special venire that has been drawn for the grand jury in session on July 6 will be notified this week.

Judge James E. Horton drew the venire when he was here last week at the request of Judge D. C. Almon for a rapid settlement of the criminal docket. The recent cases are expected to be tried near July 20.

California Tours Winners Returned

Misses Sudie Hicks and Grace Garrison and Mrs. Frank Morrow, winners of the recent California tours contest in which three free trips through the west were given by local merchants have returned, after a most pleasant and educational trip to interesting western points.

Miss Garrison declared today that the trip was delightful. "Everywhere we were entertained and we take this occasion to thank those merchants and friends who made the eventful tour possible," Miss Garrison concluded.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE HELD

SMACKOVER, Ark., June 22.—Approximately 25 suspects both white and negro are under arrest in Union and Ouachita counties in connection with the killing of C. T. Moak and Dan Lusk, electricians, Saturday night. The bodies of the men were found laying by the side of the highway riddled with bullets. Their money and watches were missing. A $500 reward has been offered for the capture of the slayer.

TRIO GET FINED

Three negro women, charged with fighting on the streets of Albany, were fined $6.60 each at the session of the Albany police court today. Officers Stewart and Thompson made the arrests. One man charged with drunkenness was fined $26.60. The same officers made the arrest.

Tells of Germs

C. C. FAIMAN, INTL.

C. C. Faiman, head of the National School of Sciences, Chicago, took the witness stand against William D. Shepherd in the "germ poisoning trial," telling of his alleged negotiations with the McClintock murder case defendant.

DEFENSE ATTACKS CHARLES FAIMAN

Former Manager of the School Lacks Belief In Witness

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 22.—The defense in the William D. Shepherd murder trial today further attacked the testimony and character of the state's star witness, Charles Faiman.

Mrs. Luella Rhubell, for two months business manager of Faiman's school, testified she would not believe Faiman on oath and that she never saw a letter from Shepherd to Faiman and that she never saw Shepherd at Faiman's school.

Faiman testified Shepherd wrote a letter inquiring about a course in criminal bacteriology and that he was instructed how to use germs to slay Billie McClintock.

Mrs. Rhubell admitted she had been paid $20 a week by the defense. She also was arrested and fined recently for disorderly conduct, she admitted on cross examination.

W. W. O'Brien of the defense brought out that he had paid Mrs. Rhubell because he thought that she was being persecuted when she was arrested for disorderly conduct.

LaFollette Given Back to the Soil

(Associated Press)

MADISON, Wis., June 22.—Robert Marion LaFollette was returned to the soil of the state that gave him birth. The last services were of simplicity in comparison with the national life that he led. While the state claimed him to the last it was to the plain people that he gave his all and they gathered from far and wide to show their feeling.

The funeral service was conducted in the rotunda of the state capitol and interment was made in the family lot at Forest Hills cemetery.

Upon few men had Wisconsin bestowed higher honors in life and perhaps in none has she given so impressive a tribute in death.

TWO CHARGES AGAINST MAN

A white man was fined $61.60 on a charge of having prohibited liquors in his possession, and $26.60 on a speeding charge before the Albany courts today. Officers M. J. Mitchell and J. N. Hendrix made the arrests.

INSURGENT BLOC SUFFERS SECOND LOSS OF LEADER

Death Today Result of Complications of Kidney Trouble

WAS FOLLOWER OF LA FOLLETTE

Went Thru Campaign Against G.O.P. Ticket With Independents

(Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Senator Edwin Freeman Ladd, of North Dakota, died here at 10:20 a. m. today. His death was a result of a complication of kidney trouble.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—With the passing of Senator Ladd, the republican insurgent bloc in the senate suffered its second overwhelming loss within four days.

By coincidence the death of the North Dakotan occurred on the day of the burial of Senator LaFollette who he had followed on so many occasions.

Together they had gone through the 1924 independent campaign against the constituted national ticket of the party by the republican organization of the senate.

Still another member of the dwindling LaFollette bloc, Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, has a stubbornly supported election contest pending against him and may be deprived of his senate seat at the next session.

The decision of the senate republican regulars to shear the LaFollette followers of their committee ranks cost Senator Ladd the chairmanship of one of the most important senate committees, that on public lands, as head of which he presided over a part of the celebrated Teapot Dome investigation.

Mr. Ladd was regarded by his colleagues as one of the hard workers in the senate. His wide knowledge of public questions won him respect and although he did not often take a hand in its debate on the floor he had a very active part in the arduous task of shaping legislation in committees.

News of his death was received with many expressions of regret among those in high place in the government.

Senator Ladd was a native of Maine and a citizen of North Dakota. He was successively a dentist, teacher, college president, writer and United States senator, attaining high honor, particularly in agriculture, chemistry and economics.

DOROTHY PERKINS SENTENCED TO PEN

Girl Seems Composed As Judge Delivers His Decision

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 22.—From five to fifteen years confinement in Auburn prison was the sentence imposed upon Dorothy Perkins today, charged with killing Thomas Templeton, Jersey City war veteran, and her suitor.

The girl appeared composed as Judge McIntyre delivered the sentence "I feel very sorry for you," the Judge said. "I don't want to add any more anguish to what you have already suffered. But you did a heinous wrong; you have led a very bad life for one so young."

Grotto Club Will Have 'Cue Fourth

The Albany-Decatur Grotto club is preparing to have an old fashioned Fourth of July celebration at San Souci cave when members of the organization and their families will be present at a barbecue. Entertainment is being provided for children and grown ups throughout the day.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Ellen and Joe Latimer, orphans, without means, make their home with their Aunt Ellen, at Port Washington, small New York town. Ellen is studying art, her expenses being paid by Mrs. Brown, her mother's friend of her mother. Mrs. Brown invites Ellen to a Thanksgiving house party, and the girl is delighted.

CHAPTER II.—On the way from the station to Mrs. Brown's, Ellen rides with a remarkably attractive young woman and a much older man. She takes them for father and daughter, but they are introduced as Mr. and Mrs. Josselyn. Ellen does not "fit in" with the younger members of the party, and is miserable.

CHAPTER III.—Leaving for her home next morning, Ellen meets Gibb Josselyn, son of her fellow guest. He has disapproved of his father's wedding and is not on speaking terms with the couple. Declining to stay at Mrs. Brown's, Gibb drives Ellen to the station. They miss the train and Gibb undertakes to drive the girl to Port Washington. On the way their auto is wrecked. Ellen is hurt, but it is not thought to be serious, and she and Gibb part. Her heart is attracted by the girl, and she by him.

CHAPTER IV.—Ellen's injury proves to be severe, and for months she is an invalid. Recovered, she is taking part in the town's Memorial day festivities when Gibb Josselyn, on a yachting trip with a friend, George Lathrop, meets her again. The feeling of mutual attraction has strengthened since they parted. They leave Port Washington man and wife.

CHAPTER V.—Nearly seven years later Gibb and Ellen Josselyn come back from France to New York. They are welcomed by Josselyn, senior, and his beautiful wife, Lillian, the old ill feeling forgotten.

her eyes found his silver head next to Ellen's on the steamer dock.

She had won him with the oldest and simplest method. Lillian might have said that there are many tools for the opening of a man's heart, but flattery is the handle that fits them all. She had flattered him so steadily yet so subtly that before many weeks Gibb had come unconsciously to hunger for the sweetness of her glances and her words, had known that no least charm or gift of his was unappreciated. She had told him that there were beauties in his hand, in the crisp curve of the silver hair from his forehead, she had said that there was sometimes a look in his eyes that made a little boy of him again. She had a hundred names for him; he was "her firebrand," "her hawk," he "frightened" her, he was "cruel" to her. Sometimes she would thrill him from head to heels by raising piteous eyes to his face and half-murmuring, half-whispering:

"Don't—don't look at me so, today, Gibb. I'm sad enough without that terrible look of yours. It makes me a naughty child again, Gibb—I'm afraid of myself when your eyes say things like that!"

It was no longer play-acting for Gibb, although there was no real tragedy in it for him yet, there was nothing but excitement and suspense, and thrilled anticipation. He did not definitely plan any future for their love; perhaps he did not even call it love. He was carried off his feet by the atmosphere of adulation in which he was floating, and Lillian's extraordinary physical charm had bound him tightly in her toils.

With Lillian, too, the game had progressed beyond its calmly defined limits. She was absolutely incapable of love, as she herself knew. She had never loved any human being but herself in all her life, although she had cultivated in herself many of the soft and endearing appearances of love. The sex sense, also, was strong in her, she had more than her share of unfeeling instinct in this respect, and perhaps the only times when she was truly happy were when she knew herself to be drawing steadily toward her some new admirer.

She loved the preliminaries, the first full, innocent look into a man's eyes, the first significant phrase that brought to his consciousness the startling knowledge: "Why, I am I, and you are you!" She knew the pretexts by which he would manage to send her a first note; she knew just what to say and what to imply in her first answer, and that he would keep it, and read it a hundred times.

To have her handsome son-in-law at her feet was a delicious experience for Lillian. Like Gibb himself, she was always conscious of the exquisite setting afforded by the "Villain's dell" Orto, and of the dramatic elements of the situation. But of late there had been a new possibility in her thoughts.

She had been intensely surprised at the experience of Gibb's studio tea. He had sent out perhaps a hundred and fifty invitations, and Lillian, working over the list of guests with Ellen and himself on a summer morning, had been astonished at his self-confidence. She had not known that he could claim so many of the city's distinguished men and women as his friends. Her own social experiences had been marked with extraordinary successes, the Josselyn name had been a powerful "Open Sesame," but she knew in her own soul that there had been failures, too, snubs and coldnesses, there were persons who never had accepted the second Mrs. Josselyn, and who never would.

She said to herself that Gibb's so-called friends would not come to his tea; but they did come, and their attitude of affectionate admiration toward him was not lost upon Lillian.

Hitherto her position as the wife of a prominent and rich man had satisfied her. She had never outlived her first sense of triumph in achieving it. Only a year or two before she had assured Lindsay Pepper that she was not inclined to change it for any charms that youth and love could offer. But now she perceived new heights. Gibb Josselyn's wife would have the world at her feet.

Lillian concerned herself with no details. She left those to others. She simply dwelt upon the thought: Gibb Josselyn's wife would have the world at her feet.

Ellen had another trouble in these days. This was a trouble real and vital enough, for it touched Joe. She had taken the sisterly liberty, on a wet October Sunday, to ask him if he and Harriet were still good friends.

"Harriet isn't well, Joe. And her father said something, last week, about taking her to England for the winter. You—you know how I feel about her? I would be so sorry to have things go wrong just because you hadn't the courage—" Her voice faltered nervously. "It isn't the money, is it, Joe?" she added.

He did not answer. He was standing by the fireplace looking somberly down at the blazing logs. Tommy had been with them, his violin was on the piano, and Ellen still sat on the piano bench, her hands idle in her lap, her anxious eyes on her brother.

"So often it's just the little things that go wrong, Joe," she said. "And then years later people say, 'If only I'd realized that that was my opportunity—and that it wasn't coming back!'"

"It's not that—" Joe began huskily, and was silent. Ellen waited expectantly, his gravity troubled her. Surely there was nothing seriously wrong? Perhaps Joe had discovered the secret that Harriet had kept from him: that as her mother's heiress she was far

MISS LOIS NELSON AND W. COY STEPHENSON MARRIED SUNDAY

A pretty church wedding was consummated at the First Methodist church last Sunday morning at nine o'clock when Miss Lois Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nelson, became the wife of Mr. W. Coy Stephenson.

Beautiful decorations of potted plants and cut flowers added a delightful charm to the occasion.

Mrs. Chas. Y. Quinn sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" was sung in fine voice by Mr. Hal Barcliff.

Mrs. C. I. Lee presided at the piano and to the strains of the wedding march the bridesmaids and attendants marched down the aisle to the altar and good facing each other. Then came the bride with Miss Lizzie Reed Penn as maid of honor down one aisle while the groom with Mr. Hal Orr as best man followed in a parallel aisle. They were met at the altar by Rev. R. W. Anderson who in an impressive ring ceremony united these two popular young people in the bonds of wedlock.

Miss Nelson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nelson, and by her charming personality claims a large circle of admiring friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stephenson, a graduate of the M. C. H. S. and is regarded by all as a splendid young man.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson left in their automobile for Decatur where they would take the Southern train for Chattanooga, Tenn., for a short wedding trip.

This young couple start sailing their barque of life under favorable auspices, carrying the earnest wishes of their large circle of friends that the voyage may be one of peace and happiness, and that they may anchor in a calm harbor with sunshine every day for the trip.

ALL DAY FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION TO BE HELD

Hartselle will feature an all day 4th of July celebration at the M. C. H. S. grounds and an elaborate program for the day has been prepared, and many prizes will be offered.

The celebration is under the auspices of Pythagoras Lodge No. 199 K. of P. and refreshments will be served on the grounds.

A large attendance is looked for. The novel prize of an organ is offered to the best quartette sung by any rural class in the county.

R. B. GIBSON, PIONEER CITIZEN, CALLED DEATH

R. B. Gibson, one of the oldest and perhaps one of the most beloved citizens of this county died Sunday morning at 5 o'clock at his home near Massey, after a lingering illness of over two months.

Mr. Gibson was the last of four brothers, all of whom were born and reared in that community, he himself having been born in that community, and lived and died within half mile of his birth place.

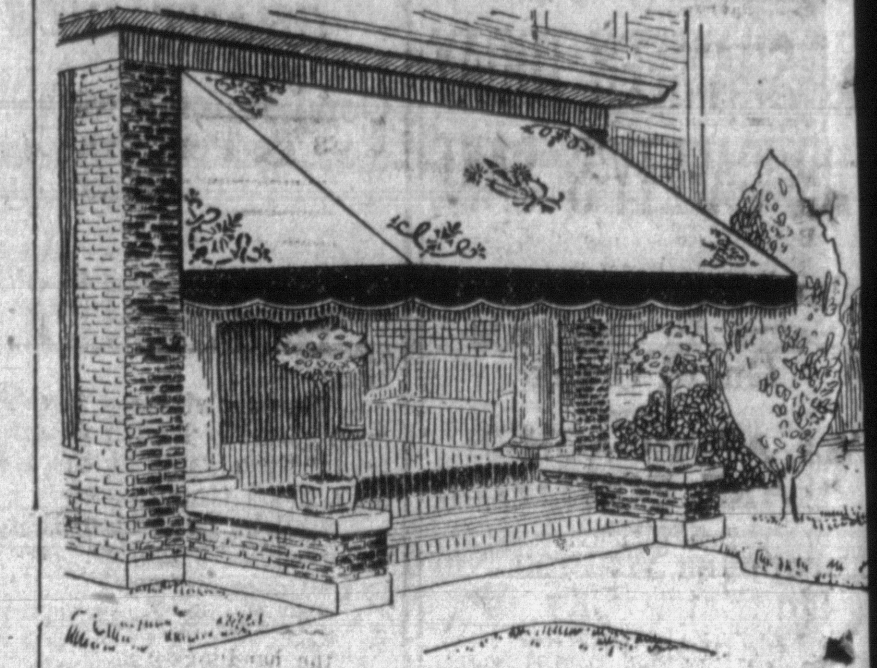

A widow, five sons and one daughter survive, being: Messrs. J. L. Gibson, Sim and Lewis, Walker and Robert, three of whom are school teachers. The daughters being Mrs. W. H. Gibson.

Mr. Gibson was a man of frugality and industry, and gave all of his children a college education. He was known for his sobriety and uprightness, and was a leader in his community. His membership was at old Mt. Nebo Baptist church for over three-quarters of a century, being a deacon most of the time. He was a close Bible student, and had committed to memory a large part of it.

Funeral services were held at Evergreen church Monday morning at 10 o'clock, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

The club has limited the ship to fifty members, near whom have signed and paid

Attractive Printing

Has a purpose as well as an appeal

There is nothing more appealing to the eye and nothing that makes your customer or patron stop and read what you have to say quicker than a neatly printed and well constructed job, but the real worth of the letter head, the circular, the statement, or the order blank is in showing the customer what kind of a firm or person he is dealing with.

The Albany-Decatur Daily Job Printing Department has been in operation for thirteen years. The same patrons that bought with us the first day the plant opened are still with us. What is the answer?

12 Years Ago From The Daily of TODAY

June 22, 1913

June 22 falling on Sunday, there was no issue of The Daily of that date.

The handling of laws is similar to the handling of a great pile of dishes—you are almost bound to break some of them.

The dawn of tomorrow means more to the man of achievement than the twilight of yesterday. Live in the past and you have only the past to build upon, a dream foundation. Live in the future and you have the solid foundation of the footsteps of today with the golden promise of future years.

Speaking of the pressure that is being brought to bear upon the Albany city council regarding the resurfacing of Second avenue one councilman said Saturday: "We are going to repair and resurface Second avenue just as soon as the Water company gets through digging it up." All of which, of course, is further testimony in behalf of the company for its rate hike.

Huntsville people are praying that the street car system will not cease to operate. Just what their viewpoint is, we do not know. In this day and time there is no prevalent belief that cities are backward and unprogressive if they fail to support a street railway system. Practically every family has an automobile and they can go anywhere and at a greater rate of speed with comparatively small cost. Looks like a progressive move within itself.

To those who are a bit skeptical of the growth of these cities, we have only to call their attention to the building of homes—homes that are being constructed with home-manufactured articles. Business buildings that are being built here and there as testimony of the faith of business men in the future development of this section of the valley. It is safe to say that within the past two or three years Albany-Decatur has taken the most definite step toward a greater permanent growth. The period of time may seem long and the road a bit rough, but after all we believe that it is the great desire of citizenry to see the cities build faster that blinds them to the slow and substantial growth of today.

Time is nearing for the actual construction of the bridge to begin and we believe that the state highway commission will keep faith with the people of Albany-Decatur and the northern territory. The commission declared that construction would be started within the month of July and the people of this section believe Mr. Rogers will carry forward the program. The commission can rest assured that Alabama street will be opened and will be made serviceable to the people who will use the bridge. If that matter is holding the commission, and we do not believe that it is, it is up to the people of Albany and Decatur to thrash out their own questions, not the state highway commission. What the commission has to do is to build the bridge and keep their pledge with the state of Alabama to open the gateway of Alabama to the rest of the nation. We can see no reason why they should take issue on the paving of a street within the municipalities themselves. Regardless of whether the street is paved part of the way or all the way, build the bridge. That is the paramount issue. Do not allow petty differences to block the pathway at this time.

WILL THE FOURTH OF JULY MEAN ANYTHING?

The grand and glorious Fourth is only a few days away and there has been little preparation made locally for the observance of one of the most important holidays that the American nation has on its holiday calendar.

Certainly there will be some popping of firecrackers and lots of folks riding around in automobiles cooling off and regretting the fact that sun was made for a southern climate, but will there be an honest-to-goodness American observance of the Fourth of July?

It is needless to remind Americans of the meaning of the July day—all of us have a more or less vague understanding of what the observance is for—why the banks are closed and a bit of color draped here or there to signify that we still know that red, white and blue are the colors of the American flag, but do we fully realize that the Fourth of July stands for the foundation upon which our government and our home life is laid? Independence. We are all proud of it. We wear the shackles of no foreign nation. We bow our heads to the Almighty alone. We feel only a thrill at talk of a king or a president—there is no fear.

Independence. That is what we are proud of and yet we hardly notice the day that should be reverently observed—the date upon which we declared those principles of government and life.

Take us back a few years on the coming Fourth. Give us some of the old-fashioned orators, not speakers, but orators, who can stir the red blood in American veins and make us realize that we have the most glorious country in the world. Give us an orator who can refer to that dim and historic past when the founders of our government put their heads and hands together and threw off a foreign yoke, with an understanding of what he is talking about. Let us have something on that day that we are not accustomed to all the year round.

The Fourth of July should be a period of thanksgiving for our Independence, even as we thank the great One above at Thanksgiving time for our religious freedom and our golden harvests. Turn back the pages of time that we might again enjoy a real observance of the Fourth of July.

SENATOR ROBERT M. LaFOLLETTE PASSES AWAY AT THE CAPITAL

Wisconsin, Monday will bury her beloved statesman, Senator Robert Marion LaFollette, who died in Washington in his seventieth year, on June 14. Back to the soil he loved so well and to the state which had conferred her highest honors on him, the body of the late statesman was taken Friday, and the hearts of many of his countrymen are heavy.

Senator LaFollette long has labored in the political vineyard. Holding the absolute trust of the people of his state, he was as independent in his politics as any statesman of recent years. He despised the process of "party expediency," which sometimes makes men in office bow their judgment under the yoke of party rule. His theories in their entirety were hardly acceptable to the American public, but his mental attainments, his moral courage, his fighting qualities and his strict adherence to those principles which he believed in, won for him the respect and the admiration of his fellow-citizens.

Senator LaFollette was generally considered as the leader of the radical forces in and out of the United States senate. He was more than that. He was one of the all-too few solons who was always ready to wage battle for his principles, irrespective of what effect the fight might have on his own or the personal fortunes of others. When he felt that a measure was meritorious, he fought for it, regardless of whether his party stood with him or against him. When he felt pending legislation was not beneficial, he opposed it, and when he found himself in conflict with his party organization, he simply let his political alignment die.

For these qualities the American public admired him and respected him. He was always on watch, lest the disciples of special privilege wrest undue advantages. The people will miss him in the senate.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY BECOMING KNOWN UNDER A NEW LIGHT

According to a statement issued by B. C. Forbes, statistician and observer, and through watching the trend of state newspaper policies in their editorial columns The Daily cannot help but notice the favorable comment on the service that the Alabama Power company is rendering to the state in general.

The recent award of the Forbes Public Service, cup to the Alabama Power company was no cut and dried proposition to pull wool over the eyes of the people. The Daily feels that the Power company won the signal honor through merit and merit alone. The judges that finally awarded the cup to the local company over a field of other contesting companies were unbiased in their opinions. There was no favoritism shown.

In the past the Albany-Decatur Daily has been one of the outstanding dailies in the state in open conflict with the Power company. We have fought the company because we felt that the company was not entirely fair in policy toward the people. We have been absolutely earnest and sincere in the battle against the corporation, but we do feel that when an honor is accorded an opponent, such as has been given to the company, that the opponent is to be commended.

The Alabama Power company has given a great service to the state. They have advertised Alabama and not the Alabama Power company, though the name of the company was attached to the articles. The Power company has made and is making great efforts toward bringing additional industries to the state of Alabama. Naturally the Alabama Power company will benefit through the growth in this state, but we do not feel that they have had this purpose foremost. They have actually given Alabama service, their time and their money in an effort to build within the state.

We do not believe that the company should be given a monopoly on the Shoals properties—we do not advocate their having any hand in the development of the power resource in the valley, but we do feel that the company has done a great deal for the state. We do not hesitate to pat them on the back for the service as we commend every individual or corporation that gives a service to the state of Alabama.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE CAN GAIN THROUGH GIFT OF ATHLETIC FIELD TO EMPLOYEES

The Louisville & Nashville railway has been and remains one of the greatest assets to the cities of Albany and Decatur and the surrounding territory, employing in the neighborhood of some 2,000 workmen. The Louisville & Nashville has always been considered as being friendly toward the interests of the people of this section and has shown a co-operative spirit whenever called upon by the cities to aid in any progressive step.

Considering the policy of the company in another light, the company naturally has the interest of its employees at heart. To gain the best labor results the company must be interested in the mental attitude and physical development of the employees. We do not believe that work, day in and day out, though the wage may be sufficient and the working conditions pleasant, will greatly benefit the laborer. Sooner or later he will crack under the constant strain of routine. That is when the company fails to get the desired result for the money that is being paid out.

Huntsville manufacturers have long since learned the value of allowing their workers to play. Mill owners in that city advocate clean, wholesome sport for employees after work hours. They are believers to the extent that athletic fields have been built and gymnasiums equipped that the laboring man may be allowed to forget the ring of the hammer for the moment in the upbuilding of his mind and body.

True, the Louisville & Nashville at the present time has representation in practically every sport that is played in these cities, but the company could go a long way toward aiding and encouraging men in their love of clean play with the expenditure of a nominal sum to go toward the equipping of an athletic field and the erection of a gymnasium. The local Y. M. C. A. has gone a long way in providing such diversion for the L. & N. employees but the organization has neither the finance nor the equipment to come anywhere near filling the need of the men in an athletic line. In our opinion the Louisville & Nashville could gain a great deal from their workmen, in providing athletic equipment, in the spirit of friendliness, loyalty and good will. Try it, we believe that the men will respond wholeheartedly.

Florida's Most Significant East Coast OCEAN SHORE CITY

The element that sharply marks the line between common and choice property, on East Coast Florida—that makes the probability of spectacular rises in value an inevitable certainty—is immediate ocean frontage.

Not a distant ocean front, reached by crossing concrete causeways over intervening bodies of water—fighting your way through miles of long delays and traffic congestion—but ocean frontage which is the city's very threshold.

HOLLYWOOD is not only directly on the shore of the blue Atlantic, with a marvelous stretch of glistening, smooth beach, but it will have the finest deep water harbor between New York and South America. $15,000,000 is now being expended on this harbor alone and, when completed, Hollywood's great wharves will afford modern docking facilities for the world's heaviest draught vessels, making Hollywood a big scale maritime port.

HOLLYWOOD By The Sea

Here is a full-fledged city—not a sun porch for touring idlers, but a delightful year around ocean resort city built on foundations of commerce, industry and recreation. Sixty miles of beautiful streets, palm shaded and electrically lighted, and lined with hundreds of handsome homes. Hollywood has every municipal public utility—every educational, religious, business and financial facility and is the liveliest, most livable, lovable spot on Florida's tropical East Coast. Real Estate values in this significant city are rising at a rate that should spur prospective purchasers to quick decisions.

In the heart of America's winter playground. 17 miles north of Miami—50 miles south of Palm Beach. On the Florida East Coast Railway, the Dixie Highway and the inland water-way.

YOUR HEALTH

Why Are Fastidious Folks Careless About Pure Air?

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THERE are lots of funny things in life. Some of them are hard to explain.
Suppose you were to come to my house and wanted to wash your hands. Suppose I took you to a soiled wash bowl filled with dirty water.
What would you do?

If I stood by to watch, you would gingerly dip the ends of your fingers in the water, scowl at the dirty bowl, and take out your handkerchief to dry your fingers. As soon as possible, without openly insulting me, you would take your departure, vowing never to visit me again.

If I handed you a dirty glass, filled with dirty water, in response to your request for a drink, you would dash it in my face and challenge me to a duel.

You wouldn't eat from a soiled plate, with a fork covered with dried food from previous use. Why not?
Of course, these questions demand no answer. It is perfectly apparent why.

But why are we so fastidious about what we take into our mouths when we are so indifferent as to what we take into our noses and lungs? We won't eat dirt, but we are perfectly willing to breathe "dirty air."

I can invite you into a room having an atmosphere filled with smoke, fumes and germs. Without the slightest hesitation you walk in, giving no thought to what such air means to your health. You halt at the dirty water and unclean dishes, but you are indifferent to a more insidious form of filth.

The able Commissioner of Health of Chicago makes a serious charge against polluted air. He considers that foul air, smoke laden heavy with soot and poisonous gases, is the cause of 40 per cent more deaths than all the infectious diseases combined.

The lungs of coal miners are packed with black soot. Just as water pipes become clogged with the deposits from the fluid, the lungs become clogged with the impurities breathed in with uncle air.

Nothing is more important than to have, during every hour of our lives, an abundance of pure air. Too often skinny, emaciated, poorly nourished individuals go along without knowing that all theirills can be traced to poor air and insufficient air.

Food cannot nourish and cells cannot prosper unless an abundance of pure oxygen is breathed into widely opened lungs.

Clean hands, a pure heart and a flow of contaminated air still insure health and long life.

Answers to Health Questions

READER. Q.—Is whooping-cough contagious?

A.—Yes; very.

T. M. C. Q.—What are the symptoms of tapeworm?

A.—The usual symptoms of this condition are irritability, nervousness, loss of weight and abnormal appetite.

E. A. A. Q.—What can I do for enlarged pores on my face?

A.—Apply hot and cold compresses to the face, alternating for ten minutes each. This will tend to reduce the size of the enlarged pores.

HARRY L. Q.—Will you please advise me of the cause and cure for a red and shiny nose?

A.—This condition may be due to poor circulation, indigestion and constipation. In the cure, the first consideration must be given to the removal of the cause. For further particulars, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and restate your question.

Frank Neuhauser, 11, of Louisville, Ky., won the national spelling championship at Washington, D. C. in a contest in which 2,000,000 children had participated. He received a medal and $500 in gold which his father, a laborer, said would be the nucleus of his college education fund.

Electric Power Supply Curtailed

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. June 22—The output of the hydro-electric plants of the Alabama Power Company has been greatly curtailed, due to the unparalleled drought that has cut down the water supply of the streams of the country, officials of the company say. This reflects in an important way the progress of the state, they point out, in that during this curtailment of output, the company has been called upon for the highest demands for power in the history of the company. Record after record for energy produced have been broken during the past few weeks, officials claim, and the company has supplied some steam power to companies in adjoining states that have also felt the effect of the drought. This demand has caused the operation of reserve plants of the company at almost full capacity, it is said.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the company declares that June 4 brought one of the highest peaks of production in company history with 3,434,310 kilowatt hours, 80 per cent of which was steam power and 20 per cent hydro. Past averages indicate that at this time of the year the hydro plants normally produce 90 per cent of the total output. The peckload of the day mentioned is reported as 193,410 kilowatts, or 260,000 horsepower, produced at the Warrior Reserve steam plant at Gorgas, the United States government plant at Sheffield and the Gadsden Reserve steam plant. "The present demand for electric service is increasing, and is evidence of Alabama's splendid business condition," said Mr. Martin. "The present connected load of the system is nearly 600,000 horsepower. Those who study the question will be convinced that Alabama will become one of the principle industrial states of the Union, and it is our view that demand on our system for energy during the next few years will exceed the expectation of the closest student of the power situation."

Here's a "tip-off" on the cigar question

Cigar tips may be good to look at. Ornamental. But for smoking value—they're "beautiful, but dumb." They cost money too. Leaving the tip off is your "tip-off" as to why 4 Old Virginias cost but one thin dime—4 mellow fragrant cigars.

A wise man may be defined as one who never talks back to his wife.

Hubby (at breakfast after an ultra smart party) "Was it you I kissed in the conservatory last night?"
Wife (reminiscently) "About what time?"

One may lie and steal and be forgiven but for success there is no forgiveness.

Being poor is sometimes more of a habit than anything else.

Long engagements are dangerous. After marriage he can keep both hands on the steering wheel.

Home Teams Get Bitter Dose From Merrimack and Moulton In Sat. Tilts

Two Albany-Decatur diamond outfits took substantial beatings Saturday afternoon when Merrimack Mills jolted the Louisville and Nashville club 22-4 and Ralston's Independents lost to Moulton Independents 12-0.

Gustin and Myers tossed 'em up for the Louisville and Nashville at Huntsville and the count indicates that the Merrimack lads hit 'em as fast as the hurlers uncoiled an offering. Martin was on the hill for the Merrimack crew and found little difficulty in locating the weakness of the local batters. Bowen caught a nice game for the home 'sicks and found Martin for safe blows on every appearance at the plate.

Down at Malone Park a figure of last year's city league tilts made his appearance very much felt. Doffing the livery of the Decatur Cornice and Roofing company R. McWright is now wearing a Moulton uniform much to the disgust of the Ralstonites. McWright hurled a steady game over the entire route allowing but a quartet of bingles to land in safe territory and only two local lads to arrive at the halfway station. T. McWright received the flinging ability of his brother in fine style at his station of duty behind the platter.

Calloway and Turney were the batteries for the homelings and the one-sided Moulton victory cannot be entered against the local flinger. Wobbly support accounted for the greater number of Moulton tallies as Calloway was stingy with his safeties.

HIKE PLANNED

The Y. M. C. A. will put over a hike for boys of the Twin Cities next Saturday. The hikers will go to the Salt Petre cave. The hike will be in charge of Maynard Layman, who has just been placed upon the staff of the local association.

This hike is open to all boys whether they are members of the Y. M. C. A. or not. It is also put on for the interest of the Pioneer & Notchers' clubs of the Twin Cities.

Boys are requested to report to the Y. M. C. A. by 8 o'clock Saturday. Each boy should bring his own lunch.

CITY LEAGUE TUESDAY

The Louisville and Nashville and the Decatur entrant will battle for cellar champ honors Tuesday afternoon at Malone Park in the first of the city league series of the week. The second game of the local league comes Thursday when the Sunday schools and the Power company will mingle in an argument for the leading position.

New Albany Ice Station

—of the—

Decatur Ice and Coal Co.

Opens Tomorrow

On 1st Ave., between Moulton and Johnston Sts.

This station has been erected for the convenience of Albany patrons.

For the sake of economy, we urge that refrigerators be kept well filled with ice, as it melts slower. But many Albany residents who should require additional ice between our regular deliveries will find it a convenience to call at our new Albany station.
